

Scholarship Application

The Technology Learning Center is not processing scholarship applications at this time due to insufficient funding. You may, however, complete the application if you wish. When funds are made available, the review board will consider applications in the order they were received.

Completing an application now will help TLC demonstrate interest in its scholarship program. This will help TLC and its board in raising, and ultimately allocating, the resources to fund this very important program.

We will keep you posted when scholarship awards become available. We remain very optimistic that limited funds for tuition assistance will become available by the second semester of 2013 with full tuition scholarships available by the beginning of 2014.

Many companies, through their corporate foundations, make gifts to organizations like the Technology Learning Center. Many will also match an employee's contribution. You may wish to contact your employer and ask them if they have a matching program and/or suggest they make a contribution to the TLC Scholarship Fund.

As a young person, you are uniquely aware of the power of social media. So, please help us make sure that as many people as possible learn about TLC and Professor Know-How's Lab. The sooner that happens, the sooner our scholarship fund will be able to help you and other young people with their college educations.

The Technology Learning Center uses the Federal Student Aid ("FAFSA") form for all college applicants.
